

Meet Cedric

Cedric was found in a dog pound in New York City by another breed rescuer who bailed him out. He was an awful mess with a cauliflower ear from infection and his teeth rotted.

A Westie Rescue group then took him in and once he was regaining some health, they posted a photo in hopes that someone might want to give a good home to an older dog. That's where my mom stepped in. Then lots of wonderful volunteers got him from Newark, New Jersey to Cambridge, Ontario..... there were eight legs to his journey. Then my mom picked him up. It was love at first sight, he is just soooo sweet!

As you can see he is very tired from his long trip. I gave him some of my babies to sleep with. I know that Cedric and I will have lots and lots of fun together. I'm going to love having a brother.

My mom says that she is convinced there are no bigger hearts in this world than dog lovers.
